(Martes martes), the stone marten is a habitat generalist with synantropic behavior (use of human structures; Delibes 1983; Herrman 1994; Reig 1992). In areas of the Iberian Peninsula without pine martens (Matos and Santos-Reis 2006), stone martens are known to occupy the higher quality forest habitat (Virgós and Garcia 2002 ; Virgós et al. 2000).
